On behalf of the citizens of the Mountain State and as your United States Senator, it is my privilege to congratulate the team at Cabell Midland High School for being selected to compete in the 35th Annual Science Olympiad National Tournament at Cornell University.

This competition exists because our statewide and national community wants you to succeed and for you to have every possible opportunity to make West Virginia and the entire country even better. I encourage you to continue your interest in STEM, listen closely to your teachers and mentors, and to work together with your classmates to learn the vital problem-solving skills that I promise will help you for the rest of your life, no matter what your endeavors may be.

The constant development of new technology means there is always more to learn in this field. And learning these skills now gives you a tremendous head start. So keep up the great work and know that the Mountain State is counting on you to continue our legacy of excellence.
